

Elvis has left the building

Contributed by A Planet Staff Report - Weekly Planet
Wednesday, 19 July 2006

Admittedly, many in Tampa Bay have no idea what the giant white shed is. If they happen to drive by on Howard or Armenia avenues, and if they happen to notice it, the hangar-like structure is pretty unimpressive; the sign out front is dilapidated and holds a collection of unintelligible letters. The art deco details are there, on the turret and façade on the east side, but the building is not widely celebrated as an architectural masterpiece.

Read more: <http://www.weeklyplanet.com/gyrobase/Content?oid=oid%3A76915>